“Writing a Scientific Review Paper”

A two-part lecture series aimed to present the fundamentals on scientific writing and scientific poster preparation. The first part provides detailed information on the structure, format and content of a journal-style scientific review paper. The use of scientific language in conveying information with precision and clarity will also be discussed. The second part aims to familiarize students with key concepts of scientific poster design. Emphasis will be given on the content, style, spatial organization as well as the readability and aesthetics of an engaging and effective poster.
